Businesses in the Perry Choice Neighborhood

Overview

Understanding the dynamics and nature of the businesses the Perry Choice Neighborhood (PCN) is essential to building a vibrant community and forging a transformative plan (Map 1). Understanding the PCN business landscape is critical to formulating an neighborhood economic development strategy that will generate jobs and opportunities for the residents and that will provide insight into the type of infrastructure that is needed to support, grow and develop the existing businesses in the neighborhood and to attract new enterprises to the community. For example, to connect residents to potential employment opportunities, one must have an adequate understanding of the types of businesses that exist within the community so that training programs can be developed that meet the labor needs of these industries. Likewise, in order to support, grow and develop it is necessary to know the types of neighborhood businesses and their relationship to priority regional clusters.

This study identifies that both large and small businesses that are located in the Perry Choice Neighborhood and identifies those businesses that are connected to the major regional industrial clusters. The report is divided into four parts. The first parts outlines the methods used to compile the report, while the second part examines those businesses found in the Commodore Perry District. The fourth part discusses the various categories of businesses found in the Perry Choice Neighborhood, while in the final part, the link between local businesses and the priority industrial clusters is discussed.

Methods

The data for this report was analyzed using a Haines and Company list for all businesses in the Perry Choice Neighborhood (PCN) and Commodore Perry District (CPD). In this database, a coding system is used to show the number of employees of each business. This one letter code provides a range of the number of employees in which businesses employ. Therefore, to determine the daytime employment population figures for businesses, we provide it in terms of a range and the mean. It is understood the limitations of this range as it provides a very wide spectrum of potential employees, but it does give an accurate idea of the employment in the area.

To examine how the businesses in the neighborhood fit into distinct industrial categories, the Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) system categories were used. SIC provides a basic code system that classifies all private and public organizations within the community into general categories and sub-categories. Sub-categories were used to assess the most prevalent "types" of businesses using written descriptions for each business as listed in the Haynes database.

Businesses in PCN were also examined in terms of where they fit into the Buffalo-Niagara region's key industrial clusters. These clusters were identified by the regional economic development institution known as Buffalo Niagara Enterprise. Clusters are distinct from categories in that they incorporate a number of industries that work together and support one another, but do not necessarily operate in the same way or produce the same type of service or commodity. SIC code ranges do not adequately define or categorize industries by cluster. To overcome this obstacle, data was acquired from Buffalo Niagara Enterprise that demonstrated the specific business codes that fit into the Buffalo-Niagara region's seven key industrial clusters.

Businesses in the Commodore Perry District

There are 25 businesses in the Commodore Perry District (CPD). The daytime population in the PCD ranges from 226-530 with a mean of 378. The majority of these businesses are construction and manufacturing related businesses. As seen in the table below, many of the businesses employ a small number of people with the exception of Mollenberg-Betz Inc. employing between 100-249 people (about 45% of the employment in the neighborhood). Cayuga Piping, Deck Bros Inc., and IBC Digital are the next largest, employing 20-49 each. These four companies make up about 63% of all employment in CPD (Map 2).

Employment

The Perry Choice Neighborhood is home to 333 businesses. The daytime employment population in this neighborhood is between 3,252 and 7,362 with a mean of 5,307. Seventy-seven percent of the businesses in the neighborhood are small businesses that employ fewer than 10 people. A large percentage of small businesses provides a great source for potential growth and may indicate that a cohort of entrepreneurs operates within the neighborhood. The top nine employers identified in Table 2 make up only 2% of the neighborhood's businesses but account for 37% of all employment and 44% of all for-profit employment. These nine businesses include business consulting firms, services, manufacturing, and construction-related industries. Another 11% of neighborhood employment comes from the eight elementary schools in the neighborhood. Figure 1 illustrates the percentage of for-profit employment accounted for by the 9 largest businesses in the neighborhood (Map 2).

Businesses by Category

The 333 businesses in Perry Choice Neighborhood represent a broad range of different categories. The largest number falls within the Business and Personal Service Category, which includes wide range of for-profit entities that provide services to both neighborhood residents and other businesses within the region. Such services include beauty parlors and barber shops along with advertising, design, consulting, security, and machine repair services. Retail represents the second largest category of businesses which includes a number of convenience stores, restaurants, bars, grocery stores, vehicle service stations and dealers, hardware stores, along with various other shops that cater to the sale of goods.

Financial and real estate enterprises along with manufacturing, wholesalers, and contractors/construction companies each make up a significant portion of the business population in Perry Choice Neighborhood. Figure 2 demonstrates the percentage of businesses in each SIC category.

Most Prevalent Business Types

The following tables list the most prevalent business types in the neighborhood. The top ten most prevalent business types in the neighborhood include: Business Services, Grocery Stores, Child Day Care Services, Apartment Building Operators, Beauty/Barber Shops, Eating Places, Drinking Places, Miscellaneous Retail, and Non-Residential Building Operators. For the purposes of this analysis, some organizations such as day care centers were classified as businesses even though they are categorized as "Education and Social Services" by the Standard Industrial Code (SIC). They were retained because many of these organizations are for-profit businesses operating within the neighborhood.

The most prevalent business type in the neighborhood are identified by the SIC system as "Business Services Not Elsewhere Classified." These are businesses that provide support services for other businesses, but do not fit neatly within a particular category of supportive business. This may indicate that a cohort of creative/innovative entrepreneurs exists within Perry Choice Neighborhood that have identified opportunities to fill unique niches within the regional economy. Further examination of these businesses should be conducted.

The following tables demonstrate the types of business that are most found in the PCN. Ten lines of business (Tables 3.1-3.10) were found to have the most number of businesses.

In total, the 10 most prevalent business types account for 30.3% of all businesses in the neighborhood. Figure 3 below identifies the most prevalent types and their respective prevalence among other neighborhood businesses.

Connections to the Regional Economy

The businesses in Perry Choice Neighborhood play a significant role in important growth areas in the regional economy of Western New York. According to Buffalo Niagara Enterprise (BNE), a nonprofit regional marketing and research organization, there are seven priority industry clusters that exist within the Buffalo-Niagara region. These include advanced business services, advanced manufacturing, cleantech, life sciences, logistics, and hospitality/tourism (BNE 2012). According to a University at Buffalo Regional Institute report (UBRI 2010), these target industry clusters account for about 50% of the region's total employment.

27.6% of all businesses in the Perry Choice Neighborhood fall under the Buffalo-Niagara region's target industry clusters. Furthermore, all seven of the region's target industry clusters are represented within the neighborhood. The most predominant of these clusters is the Advanced Business Services cluster, which accounts for 15.3% of all businesses within the neighborhood. The Advanced Business Services cluster includes a wide range of businesses that cater to the needs of other businesses, many of which include back office work. Businesses in the PCN that fall into this category include real estate services, business consultants and planners, employment agencies, legal services, communications specialists, commercial printing services, and design firms. Without a doubt, these businesses present opportunities for growth and expansion of employment opportunities within the neighborhood as they tie directly into one of the region's growing clusters. Training programs and incentives that target business growth in this sector could lead to the establishment of regionally valuable tacit knowledge and expertise among both employers and the workforce in PCN with regards to advanced business services. This expertise could potentially benefit the competitiveness of both residents and businesses of the PCN, but also contribute to the overall competitiveness of the region as a whole.

Figures 4 and 5: Graphs representing the percentage of businesses represented in the region's key industry clusters.

Conclusion

The Perry Choice Neighborhood benefits from having plethora of small businesses, indicating the potential for a culture of entrepreneurism within Perry Choice along with room for growth and expansion. At the same time, the neighborhood houses several major regional employers that provide a steady source of jobs inside the neighborhood.

While only 27.6% of businesses (and 25.9% of jobs) within the neighborhood fit neatly within the region's key economic clusters, all seven of the clusters are represented within the neighborhood and 16% of all businesses in the PCN fit under the Advanced Businesses Services cluster. These businesses could be the target of new workforce training and incentive programs in order to expand job opportunities, connect residents to those jobs, and ultimately help the cluster to grow within the neighborhood and establish a tacit knowledge in the field. Expanding the role of the PCN within the region's major business clusters will help to strengthen both the neighborhood economy as well as the region as a whole.

The central task is to develop a strategy for leveraging these business assets so that they drive neighborhood revitalization, strengthen the housing market and create employment and workforce training opportunities. For example, there are over 5,000 people who work in the Perry Choice Neighborhood but live elsewhere in the City and Region. These workers represent an important secondary housing market, and there should be a strategy to identify the amenities and neighborhood attributes that would entice them to live in the neighborhood. Likewise, given the large number of businesses in the neighborhood, the feasibility of development additional business service and support activities for them should be explored
